Tenses

Complete the following paragraph with a suitable form of the word given in brackets.

According to one story, coffee beans were discovered quite accidentally by a shepherd boy named Kaldi, as he (tend) his sheep. The sheep became hyperactive after (eat) red cherries from a certain plant. He tried a few himself, and (be) soon as overactive as his herd.

A monk who happened (pass) by scolded him for (partake) of the devil's fruit. However, the monk soon discovered that the fruit from the shiny green plant could help him stay awake for his prayers! But how did coffee get the name Mocha? An Arabian Omar (banish) to the desert with his followers to die of starvation. In (desperate), Omar had his friends boil and eat the fruit from a coffee plant. The broth saved them and the residents of the nearest town Mocha (take) their survival as a religious sign. The plant was then named Mocha in memory of this event.

Complete the following paragraph with a suitable form of the word given in brackets.

US scientists (reveal), a traditional cup of tea will soon join the list of "health menu" as it (protect) against a range of conditions, (include) cancer, heart disease and Parkinson's. Experts believe antioxidants in tea help to repair cells in the body which (damage) by sunlight. The damaged cells can lead to cancer and heart disease and other serious conditions (report) BBB. Scientists made their case at a meeting in Washington (organise) by the US Department of Agriculture. The officials from the Department outlined the (find) from a study, which suggested that tea reduced the risk of heart disease by (lower) cholesterol.