	Poetry: After Blenheim Revision	What victory is referred to in the poem? Who was responsible for the victory? The ‘victory’ referred to here is the victory of the English Army in the Battle of Blenheim. The Duke of Marlborough and Prince Eugene were responsible for the victory.		https://www.wittychimp.com/after-blenheim-questions-answers-2/

		Where was the skull found? Why does the speaker say that the skull was of ‘some poor fellow’? The skull was found beside the rivulet in the village of Blenheim. Kaspar says it to be “some poor fellow’s skull” because it is the skull of one of the unfortunate soldiers who died in the war, namely the Battle of Blenheim. Does Old Kaspar belong to English or French? How do you know? Old Kaspar is an Englishman. That is why he takes pride saying “It was the English / Who put the French to rout;” and “Great praise the Duke of Marlbro’ won, / And our good Prince Eugene.” What happened at Blenheim? Answer: A battle known as the battle of Blenheim was fought in 1704 in the village of Blenheim between the English and the Austrians on the one side and the French on the other side. The battle resulted in a grand victory of the English under the Duke of Marlborough. In this battle, thousands of men were killed, women became widows and children became orphans. The battle caused widespread death and destruction.
