		COMPREHENSION	Comprehension practice through smart board. Read the passage below and answer the questions which follow: It has been part of Nelson's prayer that the British fleet might be distinguished by humanity in the victory which he expected. Setting an example himself, he twice gave orders to cease firing upon the Redoubtable, supposing that she had struck because her great guns were silent; for as she carried no flag, there was no means of instantly ascertaining the fact. From this ship, which he had thus twice spared, he received his death. A ball fired from her mizzen-top which, in the then situation of the two vessels was not more than fifteen yards from that part of the deck where he was standing, struck the epaulette on his left shoulder about a quarter after one, just in the heat of action. He fell upon his face on the spot which was covered with his poor secretary's blood. Hardy, who was a few steps from him turning round, saw three men raising him up. "They have done for me at last, Hardy!" said he. "I hope not!" cried Hardy. "Yes," he replied; "my back-bone is shot through!" Yet even now not for a moment losing his presence of mind, he observed as they were carrying him down the ladder, that the tiller-ropes which had been shot away, were not yet replaced and ordered that new ones should be roped immediately. Then that he might not be seen by the crew, he took out his handkerchief and covered his face and his stars. Had he but concealed these badges of honour from the enemy, England perhaps would not have had cause to receive with sorrow the news of the battle of Trafalgar. The cockpit was crowded with wounded and dying men; over whose bodies he was with some difficulty conveyed, and laid upon a pallet in the midshipmen's berth. It was soon perceived, upon examination, that the wound was mortal. This, however, was concealed from all, except Captain Hardy, the chaplain, and the medical attendants. He himself being certain, from the sensation in his back, and the gush of blood he felt momentarily within his breast, that no human care could avail him, insisted that the surgeon should leave him and attend to those to whom he might be useful.

A. Answer the following questions:

earnings and also his goods. That was why he said that he had lost money because of the animal.
c. Samjhu did not want to pay for the animal but after the panchayat passed its verdict he finally paid Alagu the full price of the bullock.

3. "You sold me a half-dead animal. Because of him I lost so much money! And now you want payment for a corpse?"

a. Who said this, and to whom?

Ans- Samjhu Sahu said this to Alagu Chowdhary.

b. Why did the speaker say that he had lost money because of the animal?

Ans-Samjhu Sahu was very cruel to the bullock he bought from Alagu. One day, due to overload and exhaustion, the animal collapsed and died on a deserted highway. As a result, Samjhu, who had to spend the night in his cart, found the next day that he was robbed off his entire day's earnings and also his goods. That was why he said that he had lost money because of the animal.

c. Did the speaker finally pay for the animal?

Ans-Samjhu did not want to pay for the animal but after the panchayat passed its verdict he finally paid Alagu the full price of the bullock.

C. Answer these questions....

1. Why did Jumman's aunt threaten to call the panchayat?

Ans-Jumman had promised to look after his aunt and coaxed her into transferring her property in his name. However, after she did so, Jumman and his wife treated her very badly. He even refused to give her a monthly allowance for her maintenance. Therefore, Jumman's aunt threatened to call the panchayat.

2. "Is your friendship more valuable than your honesty?" What did Jumman's aunt mean by this?

Ans-Jumman's aunt had asked Alagu to come to the panchayat meeting, which she had decided to call against Jumman. However, Jumman was Alagu's good friend and Alagu did not want to risk their friendship. Therefore, Jumman's aunt asked Alagu this question, suggesting that honesty was more valuable than friendship and that Alagu should support what was right.

3. How did Jumman defend his case before the panchayat?

Ans- Jumman defended his case before the panchayat by saying that he had fulfilled his duty by looking after his aunt and the quarrel between his wife and aunt was a matter between women, about which he could do nothing. He also argued that his aunt's property, which she had transferred to him, did not yield him enough profit, so he could not give her a monthly allowance for her maintenance.

6. Alagu's heart sank when Jumman was appointed sarpanch because he felt that Jumman would use this opportunity to settle scores with him. In the previous panchayat meeting, as sarpanch, Alagu had passed verdict in favour of Jumman's aunt and against him. Now that Jumman was made the sarpanch, Alagu thought he would pass judgement against him, in favour of Samjhu Sahu.

D. 1. Jumman was not right when he said that he could do nothing when women of the household quarrelled among themselves, and it was a quarrel between his wife and his aunt. Although, he could have easily stopped his wife from behaving badly to his aunt and taunting the old lady, he chose not to, because he himself was indifferent to his aunt's plight, especially now that he had got her property transferred in his name. Since he himself treated her poorly, he did not feel the need to rectify his wife's behaviour towards her and used it up just as an excuse to not intervene between his wife and his aunt.

2. Early in the lesson, Jumman's aunt had suggested to Alagu that honesty was more valuable than friendship. Alagu realized this, especially when he sat in the sarpanch's seat. Therefore, he passed judgement in favour of Jumman's aunt, rather than Jumman, his good friend. At that time, Jumman felt betrayed by Alagu. However, when Jumman became sarpanch in the dispute between Alagu and Samjhu, he realized that he was the 'arbiter of truth and justice and he should not let judgement be overshadowed by his personal feelings. This was how, both Alagu and Jumman proved that a panch was above both friendship and enmity and it was God who spoke through him.

3. How did Jumman defend his case before the panchayat?

Ans- Jumman defended his case before the panchayat by saying that he had fulfilled his duty by looking after his aunt and the quarrel between his wife and aunt was a matter between women, about which he could do nothing. He also argued that his aunt's property, which she had transferred to him, did not yield him enough profit, so he could not give her a monthly allowance for her maintenance.

4. What made Alagu's and Jumman's wives exchange hot words?

Ans-Alagu and Jumman had turned foes after Alagu had passed verdict in the panchayat in favour of Jumman's aunt and against Jumman. In addition to that, when one of Alagu's bullocks died a month after the panchayat meeting. Jumman and his cronies rejoiced at Alagu's misfortune. Alagu also suspected Jumman of having poisoned his bullock. This led to their wives exchanging hot words.

5. How were Alagu and Samjhu different?

Ans-Alagu and Samjhu were very different as was seen in their treatment of the bullock. In Alagu's care, the bullock had a wholesome diet, plenty of rest and good grooming. However,

			after Samjhu bought it, he put the bullock to extreme hard work. One day, when the animal died of exhaustion, Samjhu cursed and kicked it instead of feeling bad for it. Moreover, he blamed the animal for the loss of his money. All this showed a contrast between Alagu's kind and caring nature and Samjhu's cruel and selfish one. 6. Why did Alagu's heart sink when Jumman was appointed sarpanch? Ans-Alagu's heart sank when Jumman was appointed sarpanch because he felt that Jumman would use this opportunity to settle scores with him. In the previous panchayat meeting, as sarpanch, Alagu had passed verdict in favour of Jumman's aunt and against him. Now that Jumman was made the sarpanch, Alagu thought he would pass judgement against him, in favour of Samjhu Sahu.
